

Hervé Le Dret

Computing thin shells with general purpose software

This is joint work with A. Blouza and F. Hecht.

We show how a covariant-free formulation of Naghdi's shell model that is valid for shells with curvature discontinuities, makes it possible to define finite element approximations thereof that are easily implemented in the FreeFem++ software package without expert scientific computing knowledge.